

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a haemostatic composition comprising a biologically absorbable material and hyaluronic acid or a derivative thereof, methods of producing such compositions and the use of these compositions. In particular the method of producing 5 said haemostatic composition comprises treating it with dry heat at a temperature between 110-200°C.

